STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Quincy Sippio #13

Quincy is in his junior year; he is studying economics and plays for our Longwood Baseball team. He is passionate about enhancing real-world skills that will prepare him for the professional world. Since transferring from Paul D. Camp Community College, he has greatly admired the connections with his professors and the work they put in to help him achieve success. Looking ahead, Quincy aims to pursue the analytical side of business. He plans to explore internship opportunities to help him pinpoint certain interests and refine his skills. While athletics is demanding of his time, he is always on top of his assignments. He says, “Things change and it’s important to be flexible-- so I try to get everything done ahead of time to prepare for the unexpected and never fall behind.”

A fun fact about Quincy is that he makes music when he can! His message to the CBE is this, “The professors make college an enjoyable experience for me. I know I can come to them for anything and they make it easy for me to learn.”

Tanner Thomas #15

Tanner is a sophomore at Longwood University and a rising star on the baseball field. Beyond the baseball diamond, he has ambitious dreams of opening his own training facility in the future, and he believes that being part of the CBE will equip him with the skills needed for this entrepreneurial journey. One of his favorite classes at Longwood was taking Professor Carey's Business Communications class. When it comes to studying, you can find Tanner either in the comfort of his room or at Starbucks, fueled by his love for coffee. Being part of a close-knit team is something he treasures, and he looks forward to the adventures of traveling with his teammates. “We have a lot of new faces on the team this season. Be at as many games as you can, we won’t disappoint!”

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Avia Reeves

Avia is in her sophomore year with a management concentration and has transferred from George Mason University. She comes from a unique tradition where all the females in her family have attended Longwood, creating a special bond that makes being a student here even more meaningful. As a business major, her ultimate goal is to attend hair school and eventually open and own a salon right here in Farmville! She is passionate about making her future salon not only a hub for hairstyling, but a haven of inclusivity, embracing diversity across gender and race.

"It's important to me to create a space where everyone feels welcomed and represented." Unlike past experiences, Avia has felt well informed and supported, as she is beginning her journey with the CBE. Outside the classroom, she enjoys The Golden Girls and various 80's movies. "I believe in the power of friendly connections, so don't hesitate to strike up a conversation—I'm always up for making new friends. Let's make the most of our time here at Longwood together!" Welcome, Avia!
